

I have worked with PutterPowerMedia on a contract basis doing press releases and product placement for the past six months and highly recommend its services. Eric's industry knowledge, personal contacts and creative writing skills put him on a level unmatched by others. His work is always accurate and he has hit all deadlines on schedule.

The most refreshing part about working with Eric is that he requires very little supervision. Once the groundwork is laid out, he moves the assignment from concept to completion in short order...no meetings, extra discussions etc. that consume time and energy.

Feel free to contact me if there are further questions.
